

BCIB Trade Profiles

British Columbia Infrastructure Benefits (BCIB) is a progressive construction employer. We create career opportunities for underrepresented workers and employ the skilled trades on projects under the province's Community Benefits Agreement (CBA).

The CBA is BC's first union collective agreement that provides priority hiring for workers who are underrepresented in the skilled trades. That means Indigenous people, women, locals and others can get hired first on some of the province's biggest projects.

The CBA maximizes apprenticeship opportunities so workers can progress in their careers.

The CBA also creates respectful and welcoming worksites so everyone feels safe on the job.

Any qualified British Columbian can work on a CBA project whether they are a member of a union or not.

Applying to BCIB

We don't use traditional job applications at BCIB. When you apply with BICB you will create a profile with us. We will match your profile to job openings on our network of CBA projects.

If you have several skills, list them all. You might be eligible for job openings on several CBA projects near where you live.

We use Trade Profiles to describe the types of trades we expect to hire on a project. Theses are based on forecasts from contractors. Trade Profiles do not always include specific duties. We know what kinds of jobs will be required on a project, but we don't always know the number of positions or the certifications required. Contractors and subcontractors let BCIB know these details closer to the start of work, but we want workers to get prepared and register with BCIB well ahead of being needed on site.

If there isn't an opening now, another could come up shortly. Creating and updating your BCIB profile means you can be assessed for all incoming positions. You don't have to be a member of a union to apply; we'll show you how to connect with your relevant union when you start on a project.

To apply for work opportunities with BCIB, start by creating an online profile. Go to www.bcib.ca and click "Apply Now." If you've already created a profile, hit "Already applied?" If you have any trouble accessing your profile, please email workforce@bcib.ca so we can help.
